

Why are Prepaid Phone Cards the Best Choice?

It is an obvious fact that it is best to use prepaid phone cards when you want to make long distance or international calls. But what are the reasons that make this the best possible choice? Well, let us see...

Phone cards, also known as calling cards, offer very cheap rates, due to the fact that phone cards are a dial-around method of making international calls. This means that your call will get routed through different carriers, in order to ensure you get the lowest possible rate for your long distance destination. There are a large number of service providers and they all come with very low rates to offer to their customers. As a matter of fact, when customers compare the rates of the cards to the residential phone rates, there is a big difference between them. This way, you can always save a great deal of your hard earned money if you chose to use a prepaid phone card.

Another reason that makes a calling card the best choice is that it is very easy to purchase. One can purchase such a card from either a land-based local store or even via the internet - which these days seems to be preferred by more and more people. If you purchase the cards online, it is even possible for you to recharge the cards when they have run out of the calling credit; plus you might also get a lot of very attractive discounts! All you need to do is keep an eye on the promotions different companies are offering, and take advantage of the discounts and/or bonuses they offer for various occasions.

Using prepaid phone cards also offers a higher level of safety since they require you to enter a PIN number before you can use them. This PIN is unique and confidential to each customer. Without knowing the valid PIN, customers will not be able to get things working and use their calling cards. This is why it's advisable that you keep your PIN number in a safe place. Most cards nowadays will also allow you to have PINless dialing activated. The PINless option allows you to register the phone numbers from which you place calls most often, and then lets you use your phone card without asking you to enter the PIN every time.

Yet another advantage, which you might consider to be the main one, is that by purchasing prepaid calling cards, you will always know exactly how much calling credit you have left on your account, and can use to make international phone calls. This way, as a customer, you will not have to pay the additional charges that most residential phone service providers apply, and which can be very costly.

Based on the arguments above it becomes very clear why phone cards are a great (and preferred) alternative to making international phone cards. They offer the ultimate in convenience (as you can get them online, recharge them, and use them from just about any phone you have at hand) - and they give very low rates as well!
